

New Startpage Design

As you may have recognised that the appearance of our pages has changed ...I decided to throw away the old black pages from the startup of our homepage and to integrate all information within this portal here.

For me it was more a question of the general ability to maintain the whole site in one and the same way - than a real need. But at the end I never really like the old black appearance. I hope you "All" will enjoy the new look and feel and therefor frequently will come back to catch up with us. So far the information are nearly the same, but I'm looking forward to add more and of course more recent info soon. But for you to know!! You now will be only allowed to see them once you have successfully signed in as a registered member. But then you will find the old and as promised soon a lot of more informations when you press the menu button "Studio Area" within the "User Menu".

I hope you will enjoy it?!Michael